Boarding Now

I was traveling with my wife and son to New York by plane and my son was held up by customs until 10 minutes before the flight. When we were finally released from customs and got to the gate 3 minutes before departure, they would not let us board because our suitcases were not on board. There was not enough time for releasing us and the luggage. I started thanking Hashem for all the times that I made flights on time and promised that if they let us on I will thank Hashem in public. The flight was supposed to leave 8:20. At 8:19, the guy who loads the plane called the lady by the gate, that our luggage got on and we should run to the plane! When we arrived at the plane, the door was closed already. They even brought back the steps for us to get onto the plane!

Splinter Out

We went out of town for Shabbos, and I got a really deep splinter in my skin. No one had a tweezer to take it out. We were searching for something but could not find. When my thoughts wandered to thanking Hashem in public once this painful piece of wood comes out, that split second, the person helping me was able to get it out! Thank You Hashem!

Free Upgrade

I was going away for Shabbos and made a reservation for a car, but I really needed a bigger van. When I got there and asked for an upgrade the manager told me a high price, and did not want to budge, so I left. I went back the next night. Before I arrived, I gave Tzedakah לעילו נשמת ר' ישעי' בן ר' Tzedakah משה ז"ע that his Yortziet was that night and promised to thank Hashem in public if I get a better price. I walked in, and the same manager greeted me with a smile. He started looking for a good price for me. I am still shocked of the deal I got! I had to look a few times to make sure it is not a mistake. I never got a price like this for a rental car! This goes to show you that when you Thank Hashem the Impossible becomes possible

Thought of the Week

The Slonim Rebbie ז"ע used to say that when a Jew thanks Hashem for everything in his life and accepts everything with love, exactly how Hashem has in store for him. Therefore, in a way of מידה כנגד מידה, Hashem will accept all the deeds that the Jew does, with love and mercy, and not ח"ו in a way of דין.
