Hashem's Messenger

I have been involved in a lengthy, costly Parsha. Last night, it seemed like it had all just come to nothing again. It was just too expensive to proceed, and I was going to have to give up. I went for a drive by myself and started to let myself feel badly about it. Then I focused again on thanking Hashem for all the good in my life and thanking Hashem for this and every challenge. Shortly later, I got a phone call that someone is paying to resolve the situation! I never asked anyone! I did not even think of it. It was just over. But Hashem does not want it to end yet. Thank You Hashem again and again!

Sense of Smell

On Friday, as I was cooking for Shabbos, I was able to smell onion for the first time in over 5 months since I had Covid! I do not know if the tears in my eyes were from the onion or tears of joy! Thank You Hashem for the sense of smell, and every time my smell for a certain thing returns or improves, I am so filled with gratitude. I look forward to thanking Hashem as He continues to help me smell more things better.

Don't Delay

Amazon suspended a listing because it had some information that was incorrect. I have been trying already for a while to get them to correct the information, but I have not been successful. Today, I said that I will thank Hashem in public if it gets done. I called Amazon again, and 10 minutes later they updated the information and can now reinstate the listing! I cannot believe how fast it got done! I should have started to thank Hashem from the beginning and avoided all the headaches. Thank You Hashem!
