All for a Mitzvah

6:00am: My family was packed up and ready to begin our drive back to Florida. It was raining, and just 20 minutes into our trip we innocently drove through a relatively small puddle. Suddenly, our vehicle started to sound really off, so we pulled over to figure things out. "Thank You Hashem for all the times our car got us safely to our destinations", I said, as I picked up a Tehillim while my husband called for roadside assistance. "Hashem, I know that everything You do is good, please let us see the revealed good in this situation". Thank You Hashem, that it was so early into the trip, that my mother and brother-in-law came to pick up my children and myself, while my husband waited for help.

1:00pm: A tow truck finally arrived and brought the vehicle to a service center. We waited awhile, and continued to Thank Hashem that we were all safe and it was just car trouble holding off our trip.

4:00pm: Just before the mechanics closed shop, they looked at our car and saw that it was a simple fix to get it ready to go. My grateful husband went to personally thank the mechanic, who eagerly told him that he too, is "One of the tribes." He was so happy to put on Tefillin, which he had not done since his Bar Mitzvah in 1973! We were so happy to see the revealed good in our inconvenient happenings. Thank You Hashem!

Thought of the Week

Parshas Vaera states, וְאֵל-אֲבֵרָהֶם אֶל-יִצְחָק, וְאֵל-יַעֲקֹב בְּאֵל שָׂקִי וְשָׂמִי ה' לֹא נִדְעַתִּי לֵהֶם. The וְאֵל-יַעֲקֹב בְּאֵל שָׂקִי, is explained that Hashem's name, שָׂקִי, is rooted in the words מִי שֶׁאֵמֵר לְעוֹלָמוֹ דִּי. Sometimes, when a Yid asks for something, but Hashem knows that it is not for that individual's ultimate benefit to receive, that which he asked for. Therefore, Hashem withholds it from that person. In those times, one must strengthen their Emuna, that Hashem knows what is best for them and thank Hashem for not being given whatever they desire. Although one might not understand it logically, the Emuna that Hashem knows what is truly the best transcends logic. As it was in Mitzrayim. The Yidden could not understand why they are still in exile, but Hashem knew exactly how long they needed to be in Mitzrayim for their ultimate benefit.

No Boost

My car didn't start. I tried like 5 times, and needed a boost yesterday and this morning. At night, it needed a boost again. I was on the way home, and if I would call Chaverim I would probably need to wait like 20 minutes or so. I said, "Thank You Hashem for all the times it started with no issue", and it started without a boost! Thank You Hashem!
